

Lyrics for Poetry and Covid song

Points of Departure

By Rodney Wood

Since the lockdown I've been busy in the garden
Tidying away old branches, rotting leaves, plants, loose soil,
Other winter debris & creating some art
(as recommended by the Getty Museum).

6th October 2020

Two Poems

By Andrew Button

Cars could be glued to driveways,
Streets and roads are devoid of traffic
And public transport picks up invisible passengers.
Birdsong prevails unobscured by human commotion,
Parcels are left on doorsteps
As footsteps recede into the days.

5th October 2020

Last Year

By Chris Davison

Last year, I was me.
I had meaning.
Purpose.

3rd October 2020